It is likely references will be contacted, so please verify their willingness to serve as references before listing.

Attach a separate repertoire list of solo works which would be ready for performance at festival time and chamber works studied.

Tuition (includes room & board) $750
Application fee (nonrefundable) $50

Arrive on Sunday, June 13; depart on Saturday, June 19. Classes start Monday, June 14 and end Friday, June 18

Admission is open to advanced flute students ages 20 to 25 who are beginning to embark on a professional flute performance career. Under the direction of internationally proclaimed flutist Mark Sparks, this intensive five-day seminar will focus on developing the imperative skills for the emerging flute artist. Students will take part in courses focusing on aspects of performance primarily in the area of the orchestral discipline. These aspects include playing fundamentals, audition skills, solo and ensemble playing, and general knowledge and approach to performance of a specific set of fundamental orchestral works. Special attention will be given to each student, with clear instruction regarding conceptual and practical goals. The Innsbrook environment will encourage focused work and attention to detail, while allowing for personal growth and reflection. Students will also be able to participate in the Innsbrook Institute schedule of activities if they wish.

Application Deadline: March 8, 2010
